Zutopia Update – New Fraud Controls & Speed Upgrades Live on Zutopia

Dear Zutopia Community,

We're back with another important update as we continue strengthening the platform during our soft launch phase.

Automated Fraud Reviews Nearing Release

Over the past week, we've been testing our new automated fraud management system, which flags and places accounts into review when they attempt transactions that appear suspicious or involve questionable identity details.

We're thrilled to report that testing has been extremely successful. We're now in the final stages of refinement and will be rolling this out live in the coming week. This system is a critical piece of our fraud defence framework, helping us create a secure trading environment for all users.

As mentioned in our previous updates, this is a key foundational step that enables our upcoming multi-currency support while ensuring we scale safely and responsibly.

Performance Improvements – Live Now

Alongside security upgrades, we've also pushed several performance enhancements live — some of which you'll notice immediately.

Most notably, app loading times have improved significantly. You'll see your transaction history and home screen now load faster than ever before, thanks to improvements in how we display and manage listing data.

More to Come

We're continuing to fine-tune the platform and have more upgrades and releases planned over the coming week.

In the meantime, keep trading, keep testing, and thank you for being part of the Zutopia journey as we build this platform for long-term success.
